Benefitting:

The 8th Annual Denver Public Safety Luncheon is an opportunity for six public safety focused, Denver charities to inform the business community and other interested parties on the state of public safety in Denver.

Mayor Hancock and the heads of the public safety departments for the City of Denver will each give a brief talk on something new or unique that people may not know about public safety, followed by a Q&A session.

As in past years, this year's luncheon will honor notable public safety individuals whose service has made an impact on the sector. Dan O'Hayre will receive the Jerry Kennedy Denver Public Safety Lifetime Achievement Award which was established in 2013 and David McReynolds will receive the David J. Cole Denver Public Safety Citizen's Award.
